

Digital Evidence Legal Video Services Conducts MCLE Seminar at the Law Offices of Demler, Armstrong & Rowland, LLP

Long Beach, California – December 7, 2007

Digital Evidence Legal Video Services' CEO, Michael L. Jones, conducted a 1-Hour MCLE seminar at the law offices of Demler, Armstrong & Rowland, LLP on Friday, December 7, 2007.

Demler senior attorney, James P. Lemieux brought Mr. Jones into the firm as a presenter to educate Demler's new associates in the area of video depositions. As a seasoned litigator, Mr. Lemieux oversees various aspects of training Demler's new associates at the Long Beach, California law firm.

Throughout the seminar, Mr. Jones covered sections of the California Rules of Evidence and Civil Procedure, along with topics such as; common and costly mistakes to avoid during video depositions, identifying positive and negative bias, how the attorney and client's credibility are compromised during video depositions, and effective witness preparation for video depositions.

In addition to participating in the interactive forum's live presentation, the new associates embraced the opportunity to view and discuss the high-tech audio and video illustrations to enhance their overall understanding of the proceedings.

Mr. Jones said, "Given the fact that technology in the legal profession is steadily increasing; Mr. Lemieux exhibited great vision by presenting a collective opportunity for the firm's new litigator's to comprehend the advantages and pitfalls relative to conducting video depositions."

Jones further commented, "Some of Demler's veteran trial lawyers were in attendance, but the majority of the attorneys participating in the seminar were from "the computer generation." Part of Mr. Lemieux 's strategy is to prepare the new associates in his firm for the high-tech universe of litigation."

At the conclusion of the seminar, Mr. Jones received outstanding ratings from the participants - in every category on the State Bar of California's activity evaluation form.

"As a provider of continuing legal education, I can't think of anything more rewarding than hearing the attorney's in attendance state that they gained relevant insight into the material presented. To know that the information contained in our curriculum will assist them in their area of practice is what it's all about," Jones concluded.

Michael is a member of the Los Angeles County Bar Association, and the John M. Langston Bar Association. He is not an attorney.

Mr. Jones' firm, Digital Evidence Legal Video Services is certified by the State Bar of California as a Provider of Approved MCLE credited activity.
